

Sesha Joi Moon, PhD, Director
Office of Diversity and Inclusion
U.S. House of Representatives
United States Congress

Dr. Seshia Joi Moon is the Director of the Office of Diversity and Inclusion with the U.S. House of Representatives at the United States Congress. Prior to her appointment by Speaker Emerita Pelosi, she served in positions at the U.S. Department of Commerce within the Office of the Secretary and U.S. Patent and Trademark Office – concluding her tenure as the inaugural Chief Diversity Officer at the National Institute of Standards and Technology.

In addition to completing executive educations at Harvard University, she holds a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Policy from Old Dominion

University, as well as a M.S. from the L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs and B.A. in African American Studies from Virginia Commonwealth University. She is also a Senior Research Fellow with The Conference Board's Engagement Institute as part of the Employee Engagement and Experience Council and a Senior Fellow of the Excellence in Government Fellowship Program with the Partnership for Public Service.

She is a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. and has held board positions with the African American Federal Executive Association and Commonwealth of Virginia's Criminal Justice Services Board. She is also Executive Director of The JXN Project, which is a grantee of the Mellon Foundation's "Monuments Project" and has been highlighted by PBS NewsHour, TIME, The Boston Globe, and 2021 Pulitzer Prize Winner Richmond Times-Dispatch. She hails from Richmond, Virginia and resides in Northern Virginia with her wife and cockapoo.